Let You Lie (Demo)

Mitch Gardner

staring at the blank page laying in front of me wasting time as we speak tryna put to words what I'm thinking about it's harder than it seems cause everything seems to fall apart like building a house out of sand pages getting wet and I'm not in the rain it's storming in my head hurricanes building up on the insides there's no need for it yet soon enough there'll be clearer skies so I can talk to you again will you reach out take my hand if you get it don't let go don't take that chance I will reach out and try to understand and ask you how is the sky heaters turned up high doesn't change a thing it's colder without you hopefully it's cozy where you are and I bet it's a great view now the sun seems to shine so much more that's you but that's for me will you reach out and take my hand if you get it don't let go don't take that chance I will reach out try to understand ask you how is the sky will you reach out take my hand if you get it don't let go don't take that chance
I will reach out try to understand and ask you how is the sky
will you reach out and take my hand
if you get it don't let go don't take that chance
I will reach out try to understand and ask you how is the sky do you watch me walk by I'd love to be by your side but for now I'll let you lie Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/