You Made Me Forget My Dreams

Belle and Sebastian

You made me forget my dreams
When I woke up to you sleeping
We had peace for a night at leastBut the trouble starts today
This morning you'll say
"I'll see you sometime, maybe" and I
Fall back to uneasy sleepYou made me forget my dreams
I was building a space rocket
With the boy who played bass guitar
With the boy who's wearing flaresHe didn't care
He lit the fuse and ran for a mile
The space rocket went up in styleI'll lend you two hundred quid
For a flight across the ocean
Maybe things will look better there
Because they couldn't seem much worseThan tears and a curse
For men with guns, maturing in age
Will always pay a shitty wage
They'll always pay a shitty wageYou made me forget my dreams
When I woke up to you sleeping
There was blood on the sheets again
And the view outside the windowOf gardens in bloom
Obscured by all the trouble we had
I think I better make a move, I think I better make a move
I think I better make a move, I think I better make a move
