The Snake the Cross the Crown

commit your body to advice you can't live with it's hard enough to lose a life that you once lived and all that's left are all the things that you've never wanted, never wanted cause you're trembling at the sight of blood it leaves you cold and alone and we can't live on with the sins you've learned the hunger's gone, gone cause you know what you have to do just to keep you happy you know what you have to do just to keep you standing you know what you have to do you have changed your reasons now you're locked and it's too late you got no redemption with your ways so you give in move from one neck to the next to let you live with one embrace you take a life of innocence and all that's left still doesn't taste to those that you've been hunting, that you've been hunting cause you're trembling at the sight of blood
it leaves you cold and alone
you know what you have to do you have changed your reason now you're locked and it's too late and you got no redemption with your ways so you give in
