Die in Winter

:Wumpscut:

The time has come to close your eyes time has come to realize time has come for saddling down time has come in sleep to drown
From life
From your life
From life
Is this your life
From life
This is your life
From life
This was your life
If you should die, die in winter
If you should die, die in winter
If you should die, if you should die,
die in winter, die in winter
The time has come to breathe no more time has come to see god's shore
time has come to realize time has come to pay the price
For life
For your life
For life
For your life
For life
This is your life
For life
This was your life
If you should die, die in winter
If you should die, die in winter
If you should die, if you should die,
die in winter, die in winter
Come to me, you are the chosen you will see, your eyes stay frozen Black coffin waits for only a chance to pick you up, oh what a romance
In Life
In your life
In your life

Once in your life
Once in your life
This is your life
This was your life
This was your life
If you should die, die in winter
If you should die, if you should die,
You will live on in people's mind though just for a minute of mankind Nature, it dies in winter, too but will be awoken in contrast to you.
