

Homeless Heart

Jennette McCurdy

Lonesome stranger
With a crowd around you
I see who you are You joke, they laugh
Til the show is over
Then you fall so hard If you're needing
A soul-to-soul connection
I'll run to your side When you're lost in the dark
When you're out in the cold
When you're looking for something that resembles your soul
When the wind blows your house of cards
I'll be a home to your homeless heart Open close me
Leave your secrets with me
I can ease your pain And my arms will be
Just like walls around you
Come in from the rain If you're running
In the wrong direction
I will lead you back When you're lost in the dark
When you're out in the cold
When you're looking for something that resembles your soul
When the wind blows your house of cards
I'll be a home to your homeless heart Broken
Shattered like a mirror
In a million pieces
Sooner or later
You've got to find
Something someone
To find you and save you When you're lost in the dark
When you're out in the cold
When you're looking for something that resembles your soul
When the wind blows your house of cards
I'll be a home to your homeless heart When you're looking for something that resembles your soul
When the wind blows your house of cards
I'll be a home to your homeless heart I'll be a home to your homeless heart

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>