Homeless Heart

Jennette McCurdy

Lonesome stranger
With a crowd around you
I see who you areYou joke, they laugh
Til the show is over
Then you fall so hardIf you're needing
A soul-to-soul connection
I'll run to your sideWhen you're lost in the dark
When you're out in the cold
When you're looking for something that resembles your soul
When the wind blows your house of cards
I'll be a home to your homeless heartOpen close me
Leave your secrets with me

I can ease your painAnd my arms will be

Just like walls around you

Come in from the rainIf you're running

In the wrong direction

I will lead you backWhen you're lost in the dark

When you're out in the cold

When you're looking for something that resembles your soul

When the wind blows your house of cards

I'll be a home to your homeless heartBroken

Shattered like a mirror

In a million pieces

Sooner or later

You've got to find

Something someone

To find you and save youWhen you're lost in the dark

When you're out in the cold

When you're looking for something that resembles your soul

When the wind blows your house of cards

I'll be a home to your homeless heartWhen you're looking for something that resembles your soul

When the wind blows your house of cards

I'll be a home to your homeless heartI'll be a home to your homeless heart

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/