

The Girl (Stonebank Remix)

Hellberg

Cambridge to Boston
Lives in a world she's lost in
Victim of compromise
He's staring at her Aberdeen heart
London eyes, Glasgow bone
She's a whistle in the catacombs
A paradoxHe's in love with the statue in a marble block
He's in love with the girl that time forgotShe just shuts her ears
She's fallen too far
With salt in her scars
Won't let him taste her tears
She's fallen too far
The girl that time forgotWasted moments
Full of potential and torment
An angel in disguise
But he can see her Aberdeen heart
London eyes, Glasgow bone
She's a whistle in the catacombs
A paradoxHe's in love with the statue in a marble block
He's in love with the girl that time forgotShe just shuts her ears
She's fallen too far
With salt in her scars
Won't let him taste her tears
She's fallen too far
The girl that time forgot
That time forgot
The girl that time forgot
(That time forgot)You let her go, catacombs
You let her go
You let her go, catacombs
You let her go
She just shuts her ears
She's fallen too far
With salt in her scars
Won't let him taste her tears
She's fallen too far
The girl that time forgot

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlyrics.com/>