Remedy

Under The Flood

Somebody Listen
Please I'm desperate.
It's silent on the surface
A perfect planted memory
Hopeless to reason
Content don't compromise
This painful illusion
Is bleeding through the other side.
Feel it coming over you
Swarming to cover up the truth
Tempting to feed upon a lie
I've come to let you see.
You won't stir while I kneel
But I will push them all aside I've come to clear the way
And It Sounds like you're trembling now
It's time to muddy up the waters find the remedy.
Somebody wake the others
Rouse them with a whisper
This prickling paranoia
Is icing through my veins.
Feel it's better than before

Master is easy to ignore
Steady the ground begins to break
Comfort is taken in the fall
This structure was sacred
To a mind not ready to believe
And the warnings of the ancients
Have led us to the remedy.
You won't stir while I kneel
But I will push them all aside I've come to clear the way
And It Sounds like you're trembling now
It's time to muddy up the waters find the remedy.
Catch another breath before you try to compromise and say how hard it was for you to identify
I wish you could have seen the look in your eyes when you looked at me and saw that I was your remedy.
You won't stir while I kneel
But I will push and clear the way
And It sounds like you're trembling now
It's time to muddy up the waters find the remedy.

Somebody wake the others
Rouse them with a whisper
This prickling paranoia has led us to the remedy
