

I'm Moving On

Dylan LeBlanc

Some may say, that an empty-handed man
Will do all he can to hold someone again
 But I say to hell with it all
Till there ain't nothin' left to condemn
 And like the wind guides the sailor
I raise up the anchor, and driftI'm movin' on
 I'm movin' on
 Break down the wall that I lean upon
I'm movin' onBy the wayside, far away from you
 Where I thought time would heal
 Faster than I could feel blue
And I find myself at a bitter, wounded road
 Where in all of its glory is a story
 That's best left untoldI'm movin' on
 I'm movin' on
 Break down the wall that I leaned upon
I'm movin' onI'm movin' on
 I'm movin' on
 Break down the wall that I leaned upon
I'm movin' onI'm movin' on
 I'm movin' on
 Face a new dawn, sing a new song
 I'm movin' on
