

Calling Love

Fabrizio Faniello

Missed the common life we had
Monday mornings and quiet nights
Being bored, feeling fine
Was it gift if you ask me now
I never knew when I had you

All the same, whomever's to blame for this
I call love by your name
I take it's no use that I miss you
Still calling love by your name

You want apartment outside town
I miss Saturdays when your kids came by Fussing hard to accept
But who can choose the love they get

I thought I could
You never measured up
Your life wasn't good enough
But who am I to judge you now

All the same, whomever's to blame for this
I call love by your name
I take it's no use but I miss you
Still calling love by your name

All the same, whomever's to blame for this
I call love by your name
I take it's no use but I miss you
Still calling love by your name

Lyrics powered by lyrics.tancode.com written by Ternheim, Anna Alexandra / Dahlback, Andreas
Lyrics Â© EMI Music Publishing

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>