The Alcohol Diary

Keepsake

All for the sake of healing.
She went back on everything
She stood for Fell apart to the Acts that she abhors
A night of regrets
Finish a lie with "I love You"
What a heartless thing to do
In the hands of anotherWho have you Become?
Stranger
I taste the poison on your lips eating through me it kills
Slowly
Breaking
Down months of strength
And memories
We built together
So high, so strong
You single handedly destroyed everything we ever were Everything we were to becomeA false commitment.
I so strongly believed
Pretending you were someone you
Never were meant to be
You've gone to far
There Is no going back...
Declare your independence
I should've listenedI was warned of the pain you'd Cause
I knew what you were capable of Blame me.
Blame me for trying

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/