Purgatory

Pat Benatar

We will be the forgotten ones, they will shake their heads and pity us

We who sacrificed our sons and daughters with the sweet taste

Of victory on our lips, they will cry, but their tears will come too late

There is no redemption for the ones, who choose to walk in the shadowsOh, sweet redeemer will you save a place for me

I am tired and I'm seeking restitution
Oh, will you heal me, will you take away my pain
What I'm looking for is absolutionGetting out of Purgatory is no small accomplishment
And the price is high and it comes with its own set of conditions
The choice is never clear and difficult to make but it will not change them
They will just go on the way they always haveOh, sweet redeemer will you save a place for me
I am tired and I'm seeking restitution
Oh, will you heal me, will you take away my pain
What I'm looking for is absolution
