Drowning

Mxpx

Switch the light off, go to bed
There's no more room inside my head
The world around me slowly fades away
As I close my eyes and think
The shadows blot my memories
Of all the thing I've tried and failed today
Please don't go, first I need to know
If all the lies you said to me were true
And the face that I saw wasn't really you
I feel like drowning deep down in the sea
I feel like drowning, don't bother coming after me
I feel like drowning way down in my false memories
I feel like drowning
With blankets wrapped around so tight
That in my dreams, my hands are tied
Now I'm slow-mo running for the door
I've got no clue where it leads
But my lungs need some air to breathe
My eyelids shutter then fall to the floor
Please don't go, first I need to know
If all the lies you said to me were true
And the face that I saw wasn't really you
I feel like drowning deep down in the sea
I feel like drowning, don't bother coming after me
I feel like drowning way down in my false memories
I feel like drowning
We all reach that dark and fragile destination sometimes
Looking for direction for the light to fill our eyes, fill our eyes
Please don't go, first I need to know
If all the lies you said to me were true
And the face that I saw wasn't really you
I feel like drowning deep down in the sea
I feel like drowning, don't bother coming after me
I feel like drowning way down in my false memories
I feel like drowning
