Imperceptible

Locomotive Ghost

Imperceptible
by
Locomotive Ghost

Her face has now departed
To southern skies sheâ€™s cast her eyes
And left me where I started
Broken hearted

Shades of grey grow darker
The memories evoke the dreams
As the air turns sharper
Days are slowly folding

Diminishing steadily
The empty space Iâ€™m holding onto What weâ€™ve grown weâ€™ll gather
Row by row

Reap the seeds we scattered long ago

Chrous:

Imperceptible (x4)
And yet inevitable

Seems like a moment ago her light was lingering
Now sheâ€™s turned on her side leaving me out in the rain
I reflected her mood like the moon
But like her love the sunâ€™s begun to wane

A precipitous fall, heeding gravityâ€™s call
Itâ€™s almost all I can take but why deny it in vain
Every season will end and every flower bend
The irrefutable ache will surely crumble and mend

Chrous:

Imperceptible (x4)

And yet inevitable

(Guitar Solo)

Chrous:

Imperceptible (x4)
And yet inevitable
