

Divided

Silent Civilian

Check your weapons at the door
You don't live here anymore but a heart can not repent if it doesn't know it's bent it's like it's beating itself to death There you are, still as stone stretching skin on the bone Well they say I've lost my will but I'm just standing still
In a world that swallows cowards for the crime of killing time
I'm checking out the scenery from as high as I can be Come, let faith be your garden
always changing, always still...
still breathing
And there you are in my mind
Will from living underground Divided and divided until no one can be found nothing left to break down
I'm checking out the scenery
from as high as I can be
always changing, always still...
still breathing
I'm checking out the scenery
from as high as I can be
always changing, always still...
still breathing
Come, let faith be your garden
always changing, always still...
still breathing
Check your weapons at the door
You don't live here anymore
Well they say I've lost my will
but I'm just standing still
still breathing...
