

The Other Side of the World

Chaka Khan

A penny has two faces
When one of them you have to choose
Between the two places
One must win and one must lose You say, you have a sense of freedom
Whenever you're away from here
Put your hand on your heart and tell me
That you never shed a tear Oh, what you're doing, baby?
On the other side of the world with all those fancy girls
Never believe their hearts are stone They may warm your bed when you're alone
But I can warm your heart and soul
On the other side of the world Life is only snakes and ladders
Sometimes up and sometimes down
It doesn't really matter, baby
When you got love around Oh, but you won't find that lovin', no
On the other side of the world with all those crazy girls
Never believe their hearts are stone They may warm your bed when you're alone
But I can warm your heart and soul
On the other side of the world I'll be waitin' for you, never believe their hearts are stone
They may warm your bed when you're alone
But I can warm your heart and soul
On the other side of the world On the other side of the world, on the other side of the world
On the other side of the world, on the other side of the world
On the other side of the world
