Stray

Uppercut

It's ten thirty and you're calling me again,
I must say that I wonder why you're talking with suspense.
About how you think I'm stalking you again,
I bet you never thought that I was walking through your head.
I never should've got on the mattress
I never should've opened the bandage
I never should've got on the mattress
I never should've
Dive in too deep
Lick the inhibition off my teeth
Swim far out to sea
Swim so hard that you can barely breathe
Listen here I've gotten away
I love you and I told you but you want me to stay
I think my sense of time is delayed
Cause if I stay here any longer I might start to decay
I never should've got on the mattress
I never should've opened the bandage
I never should've got on the mattress
I never should've
Dive in too deep
Lick the inhibition off my teeth
Swim far out too sea
Swim so hard that you can barely breathe
Like a cushion on both sides
A seance to my amends
And I'm an addict to your smile
The beginning to your end
