

Drinking Lightning

AWOLNATION

In the valley
And my heart sinks
There'll be no strings
I'm worth nothing
When the sad wind
From the night said
Help me pretend
That you'll sin
In the dark space
The touch of your soft face
In front of a fireplace
Would you believe me
If the phone rings
Tell him nothing
Or maybe one thing
That hell is coming 'Cause he wasted your time
In a year you'll be mine
No you don't fair well
No you don't fair well
No you don't fair well, without me When I feel numb
From your answer
I take a kinder
Appreciate your kinder
If the glove fits
Above the tool box
You'll hear a pin drop
At the sound of my thoughts
Now the pain cries
Down a cheek it dries
Oh the pink sky
And back little white lies
When my eyes sting
Where my heart sinks
There will be no strings
We're drinking lightning 'Cause he wasted your time
In a year you'll be mine
No you don't fair well
No you don't fair well
No you don't fair well, without me We're drinking your lightning

We're drinking your lighting
We're drinking your lighting
We're drinking your lighting(Ooh)
(Ooh)No you don't fair well
No you don't fair well
No you don't fair well, without me
No you don't fair well
No you don't fair well
No you don't fair well, without me
