

The Closing Door

LVL UP

I can't see the floor
Until you open the door
Until you remember to let me in
And pray no more
And let the body set the score
Spirit sifting through your pores
She's thinking there and back again
But I'm not even listening
I think I said something mean
But I'm not quite remembering
The closing door shows often in my dreams
And sings to sleep the body inside me
I don't know what I'm looking for
The closing door has brought my body here before
