

2 1111

Cannons and Clouds

I could never

run. I could never hide.

I could never save my soul from damnation though I tried.

And all I want

is to be with you.

Can't wait another moment on this great highway of blue ocean view.

There's a break in the fog.

I see a little light.

Reminds me of the red planet we stargazed at that night.

And Jupiter was worthy to smile.

From the other side of this big town I loved so much with my,

all my heart.

Red and blue skies wrap the island on both sides force the eye onto the ship that sails past Jonah waiting for signals from my soul.

You and I both.

We've come so far

since that tiny room

on 1111 East Eighth Street in a town where nothing new.

That late night drive,

the abandoned farm.

Our paths divide and merge all these years, memories are all tattooed on.
