Lovin' Arms

Etta James

Lovin' armsrnrnIf you could see me nowrnThe one who said that she'd rather roamrnThe one who said she'd rather be alonernIf you could only see me nowrnrnIf I could hold you nowrnJust for a moment if I could really make you minernJust for a while turn back the hands of timernIf I could only hold you nowrnrnI've been too long in the wind and too long in the rainrnTakin' any comfort that I canrnLookin' back and longin' for the freedom of my chainsrnAnd lyin' in your lovin' arms againrnrnIf you could hear me nowrnSingin' somewhere through the lonely nightrnDreamin' of the arms that held me tightrnIf you could only hear me nowrnrnI've been too long in the wind and too long in the rainrnTakin' any comfort that I canrnLookin' back and longin' for the freedom of my chainsrnAnd lyin' in your lovin' arms again
