

Life on the Run

Lisa Heller

They tell you that you can't be a dreamer
They push you and they pull your confidence down
They hurt you and they step all over your feelings
Until you know you can't take anymore
They don't know you
They don't see you March to your own beat of a drum,
Cause you can be anyone,
Anyone you want to be
Stars don't circle the sun,
And you can have anything,
Anything you need from me
I'll pick you up when they drag you down
To hell with circumstances
So here's to second chances
This ain't Life on the Run
Cause you can be anyone,
Anyone you want to be They tell you you're too short to walk on the runway,
They tell you you're too tall to be in this crowd
They blame you - shame you, but they don't look in the mirror,
Until you choose to turn and walk out the door
They don't know you
They don't see you March to your own beat of a drum,
Cause you can be anyone,
Anyone you want to be
Stars don't circle the sun,
And you can have anything,
Anything you need from me
I'll pick you up when they drag you down
To hell with circumstances
So here's to second chances
This ain't Life on the Run
Cause you can be anyone,
Anyone you want to be Don't try to turn me down,
Cause I'm alive
I'll turn up the music loud,
And say my goodbyes
To the fears and the doubts
That hold me back,
I'm already packed And march to your own beat of a drum,

Cause you can be anyone,
Anyone you want to be
Stars don't circle the sun,
And you can have anything,
Anything you need from me
I'll pick you up when they drag you down
Cause you can be anyone,
Anyone you want to be.
