

The Difference

Colby O'Donis

Behind every great man
There's a woman, woman, woman oh
She never lets me down
She makes me feel so, so, so good When she's loving me
Man, it's like, whoa, whoa, whoa, whoa
She's my ride or die
Twenty-four, seven, three, sixty-five So no matter what is facing me
She has a way to give me strength
For her I'll wait a life but I can't go tonight
Without hearing the voice of an angel The difference is
She makes the world a little better
The difference is
She makes it hurt a little lesser The difference is
She can take away the pressure
The closest thing to heaven
Ooh, that's the difference When you find the right one
You'll walk a little better
You'll talk a little better
You'll eat a little better You'll dress a little better
She's the closest thing to heaven
Ooh, that's the difference
Hey, she makes the difference She lifts the weight
Right off of my shoulders, shoulders, shoulders hey
And with this girl
I can picture growing older, older, older And if you got one like mine
Better pull her closer, closer, closer
Don't play the cool guy, you'll lose your chance
To show her, show her, show her She always sees the best in me
A hundred percent she expects from me
That's why I'm blessed with life to see her every night
And feel the touch, the touch of an angel The difference is
She makes the world a little better
The difference is
She makes it hurt a little lesser The difference is
She can take away the pressure
The closest thing to heaven
Ooh, that's the difference When you find the right one
You'll walk a little better
You'll talk a little better

You'll eat a little better You'll dress a little better
She's the closest thing to heaven
Ooh, that's the difference
Hey, she makes the difference [Incomprehensible] try to say
If she's a dime like mine don't let her slip away
'Cause a girl like that don't come 'round everyday
Yes, I said that's the difference The difference is
She makes the world a little better
The difference is
She makes it hurt a little lesser The difference is
She can take away the pressure
The closest thing to heaven
Ooh, that's the difference When you find the right one
You'll walk a little better
You'll talk a little better
You'll eat a little better
You'll dress a little better
She's the closest thing to heaven

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>