

Alright

Debelah Morgan

I used to feel so sad
Sad and lonely too
'Cause I never had someone
Who loves me like you do I don't worry anymore
With him by my side
Ever since the day we met
His love has changed my life Open up and let him in
He will be your one true friend
He will make everything alright Everything will be alright
Everything will be alright
With Christ in your life
He will make everything alright Everything will be alright
Everything will be alright
With Christ in your life
He will make everything alright He will love you too
If you let him in
It doesn't matter who you are
He don't care where you've been, oh boy He just wants to be your friend
His touch will ease your pain
Once you let him in
You will never be the same Open up and let him in
He will be your one true friend
He will make everything alright Everything will be alright
Everything will be alright
With Christ in your life
He will make everything alright Everything will be alright
Everything will be alright
With Christ in your life
He will make everything alright Alright, everything will be alright
Alright, everything will be alright
Alright, everything will be alright
Alright, everything will be alright Everything will be alright
Everything will be alright
With Christ in your life
He will make everything alright Everything will be alright
Everything will be alright
With Christ in your life
He will make everything alright

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>