Belong

Wolf People

To belong to something more...In their lives
People try
To convince themselves they are the scene
Send out fires
Across time
Don't they see they are only belief?And every part of them
Belongs to everything
Just a thought never given a nameThey are blessed
To fall and rest
Just a part of the vast forest floor
With no future
And no past
Never wanting for anything moreAnd every part of them
Belongs to everything
Just a thought never given a nameTo belong to something more...Though the light may fall on you
You were meant to pass it through
Handing on your strength and all you knew
