

Senior Letter

Lily Bee

I found a letter from yesterday
Written five years ago in the month of May
From me, from little old me
I scanned the paragraphs in ballpoint pen
And made a point to read them over again
Carefully just to see

(Bridge)

I read through my old words
Even though it sounds absurd
My life in retrospect, well, it gave me cause to smile
I wrote

(Chorus)

Do you listen to the same old songs?
Do you still sing along in the dark?
Do you still follow you heart?
Are you laughing with the same old friends?
Have you lost or found your Zen?
Did you ever make that change?
Oh, I hope you made that change.
The only thing constant is change

The view is clearer now from twenty-two
Canâ€™t say Iâ€™m any closer to the truth
But weâ€™ll see, yes weâ€™ll see
No one told my lifeâ€™s a one-way street
No changing plans, not even changing seats
Not now, no not now

(Bridge)

(Chorus)

Even in this ordinary life
Thereâ€™s so much magic between the lines
I hope I donâ€™t miss out on anymore this time

(Chorus)
