

You Can See Everything

Brooke Miller

They'll be wondering how this all came about
And silly rumors will fly around this little town
But I don't care, I know it's in the air
How much I adore you I've been singing about water
Without a second foot on dry ground
You make swimming so easy I'm gonna drown
In your capping blues and greens
I mean who gets to feel this way But it's a quiet revolution in the way that you love me
You set the sky high above me
And the heart can travel given the right set of wings
You can see everything It's a quick turn the corner back into prolific
You take the summer off jotting things down
That you hope will come back to ya
It's ain't easy when you're the only thing that's on my mind
It's the kindest storm blowing in a bigger love
