

Malt Liquor Tastes Better When Youve Got Problems

Less Than Jake

And I've been so busy trying getting by just simply "trying" that I've only wound up living weekend to weekend And I should be out looking for a job left with nothing else so I think but only wind up heading for a stiff drink "it's time to stumble home" So I say Hello to wasted hours I've been so busy dying paycheck to paycheck that I've always wound up living and I say bottoms up to better days scraping by but hardly trying when half the check goes to rent I should be out looking for another job what will it take to get me out of bed the other half goes to debt Instead I stumble home Another day not trying there's no one left to blame it's just the routine and the repetition I've spun out of control

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>