Life On Standby

Hawthorne Heights

The distance and my heart's to sand
Flowing through the hourglass
Time to let go, of all we know
And break our hearts in strideI need you now more like yesterday
The last day I could see you smile
For the last time, turn out the lights
My life on standbySo standby and watch
This fall away and fall apartJust say that it's over
It's over and she's gone, now she's gone
"Don't worry", he said
And she's not coming home, she's not coming home
It's over and she's goneThe distance and my heart's
To sand flowing through the hourglass
I fall to pieces, I can't let go
Of all the times I never said goodbyeJust say that it's over
It's over and she's gone, now she's gone
"Don't worry", he said
And she's not coming home, she's not coming home
It's over and she's goneWake up
Wake up
Wake upWake up, now it's over, just tell me it's okay to die
Wake up, now it's over, just tell me it's okay to die
Wake up, now it's over, just tell me it's okay to die
Wake up, now it's over, just tell me it's okay to die
