Battle Cry

Juliette Reilly

I tried to make you proud
You said I had my head in the clouds
I've spent a lifetime
Stuck in the same lines
Gathered up each grain of sand
Built my castle in your hands
Then I spent a lifetime

Try not to cry
Look at me, now
The diamonds i've found
This might not last forever
But it might do something better

I believe
This is bigger than you and me
You will see
The crowds swelling in revelry

I am ready
And if that means goodbye
Then it's time to fly
into the lights
Nothing but sky and this strong Battlecry

You telling me I'd never make it
Left me, need to prove you mistaken
I spent a lifetime
Waiting for my time
There was something in the wreckage
A tiny piece of who i knew i'd be
I'm setting it free

Look at me now
The diamonds i've found
This might not last forever
But it might do something better

I believe
This is bigger than you and me

You will see
The crowds swelling in revelry

I am ready
And if that means goodbye
Then it's time to fly
into the lights
Nothing but sky and this strong Battlecry

Stopped asking questions
Stopped asking permissions
Now it won't come undone or rebel
All that's left are the stories we tell

I believe
This is bigger than you and me
You will see

I am ready
Then it's time to fly
into the lights
