Love Thine Enemy

Cass McCombs

Love thine enemy
Love thine enemy
But hate their lack of sincerity

Love thine enemy

I found this quote in a book and I thought of you So I walked me out like a moth in the morning dew And a million cigarettes later the quote reappeared Now nothing about my love could be called insincere

Love thine enemy
Love thine enemy
But hate their lack of sincerity

Love thine enemy

Every idiot thing you say speaks of pain and truth Because of the beautiful way your tongue can seduce Whats behind the mountain is a mystery

Thats why after the quote I added: sincerity

Love thine enemy

Love thine enemy

But hate their lack of sincerity

Love thine enemy

He tried to come between us like a purple ghoul
Hypocrites especially practice the golden rule
I love what you say though sometimes its mean
Without earthworms how else would the soil keep clean?

Love thine enemy
Love thine enemy
But hate their lack of sincerity
Love thine enemy

[x2]

Love love my enemy

Love my enemy

But I hate their lack of sincerity

Love thine enemy

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/