

A Change In The Air

Clint Black

There's something talkin' in the wind
Whispering through the trees
That feeling in my bones again
Just puts me right at easeIt takes me back to all the times
I've been here before
But crossroads, old familiar signs
Tell me, there's something moreCan't explain, there's something strange about the early fall
It's a comfort leaving me without a care
I remain but everything around me hears the call
And tonight, I feel a change in the airThe leaves are turning Soon they'll fall, there's a norther blowing in
The memories flowin'
I recall those changes in the windBut I can never try to understand
There's nothing you can hold in your handCan't explain, there's something strange about the early fall
It's a comfort leaving me without a care
I remain but everything around me hears the call
And tonight, I feel a change in the air
Yes, I'll surely feel a change in the air

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>