

A Haunting

Dale Earnhardt Jr. Jr.

During my screams my eyes are uncooperative all my synapses - corroded from the wear,

Light a candle,

I'm so unromantic,

I am so inundated by the speed of things.Like the domes I constantly need practicing, all your information came at me so fast.

Only once now, only once turns upside down all your one-time spill out on the floorI don't want it to end badly

I don't want you to be like all the ones before

I don't want it to get back to your sisters and your friends back home

But if you come back to haunt me

I would swear I heard you talking through the walls again

All night I'd be pretending every noise I heard was just your ghostI don't want it to get ugly,
I don't want it to be like all the ones before

I don't want it to get back to all the thugs and all your crew back homeBut if you come back to haunt me,
I can see you stand before me like a hooligan

I can hear you with an understanding unlike any that i've known.I just want to feel somebody,
I just want my body to be overcome for once,

I just want to be possessed by all the spirit that I still don't knowAnd if you come back to haunt me
I can feel you running through me like I never did

I can finally know you just the way you always needed to be known
I just want to feel somebody,

I just want my body to be overcome for once,
I just want to be possessed by all the spirit that I still don't knowAnd if you come back to haunt me

I would swear I heard you talking through the walls again

All night I'd be pretending every noise I heard was just your ghost
