

Goblins' Dance

Ensiferum

Once in the time of chaos
Sunless days and unhappiness
The statue of triumphant master
Stood proud and grim In the light of three descending moons
It twisted and cracked open
Unleashing the goblin king
Once again, for the last time, lie Now the victory is ours
Let us dance, the dance of immortals
They shrieked, as they marched up, down the hills
In the sighing face of earth Misfortune and chaos
Grief and destruction
The works of dreaming evil
And the joy of unholiness No soul was left alone
In the mayhem of the human race
Let us joy, let us dance
So they danced their macabre dances Now the victory is ours
Let us dance, the dance of immortals From the three ascending moons
Moonshine was spilling onto the ground
Gruesome trophies were all around
In the halls of the goblin king Now the victory is ours
Let us dance, the dance of immortals
Now the victory is ours
Let us dance, the dance of immortals They shrieked, as they marched up, down the hills
In the sighing face of earth
