Anna

Georgia Ruth

Anna, emotion is one part blood and nine parts ocean
Itâ€™s fair to say you are heading for a storm someday
And I hope itâ€™s passed over, and all your seas are back in motion
And love rolls in as time rolls on; funny how they slip away

And youâ€™ll say what youâ€™ve always been sayinâ€™
That you donâ€™t have to be ten miles off land to be sinkinâ€™ like a stone

Anna, youâ€™re all right
And despite what youâ€™re thinking
I have let it go by
And tonight
Let her in, and donâ€™t fight it
And Anna, itâ€™s okay.

Well I hope that I, hope that Iâ€™ve made a lasting impression
But love sparked by a sad song is a sad love from the start
And if it was no more, no more than a cloud break on a grey day
Then that Iâ€™d not be the first to want to keep the brighter part

So now youâ€™ll stay, youâ€™ll stay as youâ€™ll seem, then
In a cafÃ© looking out on a sea that was not quite clear

Anna, youâ€™re all right
And despite what youâ€™re thinking
I have let it go by
And tonight
Let her in, and donâ€™t fight it
And Anna, itâ€™s okay
To cry.

And youâ€™ll say you donâ€™t know
What to do nor where to go, but oh,

Anna, youâ€™re all right
And despite what youâ€™re thinking
I have let it go by
And tonight
Let her in, and donâ€™t fight it
And Anna, itâ€™s okay

Itâ€™s okay
Itâ€™s okay
Itâ€™s okay (to cry).
