

Selfmachine

I Blame Coco

I saw the mirror staring back at me
And it told me I'm a self machine
I saw the mirror staring back at me
And it told me I'm a self machine It said I gave you these scars
And I gave you these wounds
I told you the false
And I showed you the truth I saw the mirror staring back at me
And it told me I'm a self machine Lonely robot in a wasteland, rusting in a lonely harbour
Lonely robot in a wasteland rusting in the harbour's water I'm not a human if you say I'm not I'm not a human if my hinges lock
And this motor that you call my heart
Is another machine that won't stop And the impression of my self machine
The word was spoken and it was foreseen
Now we're too well too bothered in between A pic so lost on my computer screen Lonely robot in a wasteland,
rusting in a lonely harbour
Lonely robot in a wasteland
rusting in the harbour's water I'm not a human if you say I'm not
I'm not a human if my hinges lock
And this motor that you call my heart
Is another machine that won't stop Wait harbor, wait Water still, water still
And shake, the ground will shake
Out stand still, out stand still Lonely robot in a wasteland,
rusting in a lonely harbour
Lonely robot in a wasteland
rusting in the harbour's water I'm not a human if you say I'm not
I'm not a human if my hinges lock
And this motor that you call my heart
Is another machine that won't stop I'm not a human if you say I'm not
I'm not a human if my hinges lock
And this motor that you call my heart
Is another machine that won't stop
