Point The Finger

Nadia Ali

Why the long face?
I dont want to hear you out
In the old days
I would let you run your mouth
But its a different day now
Got someone different here now
I'm sure you feel like I let you down
Oh, but you pushed me outYou can try to point the finger at me
But you knew this would happen
I would move on and find someone who would see
I was worth keeping
I was worth keepingI know that inside
Everything you meant was well
But from the outside
One would think you never felt
Anything towards me
You let me feelin' empty
But everything still turned out fine, no thanks to youYou can try to point the finger at me
But you knew this would happen
I would move on and find someone who would see
I was worth keeping
I was worth keepingWhen a glass breaks it never goes back the same
You can vow eternity but I will never take your name
Everything we ever had best to keep it in the past
Everything we ever felt, I dont wanna remember back
I don't wanna remember back
(don't wanna remember back)You can try to point the finger at me
But you knew this would happen
I would move on and find someone who would see
I was worth everything
I was worth everything
Dont you agree?
