The Story

Meg Sutherland

The seas are moaning
The mountains groaning
How we need a Saviour
How we need a Saviour.

The skies are crying
Our hope is dying
How we need a Saviour
How we need a Saviour

Only look, in the sky you'll see a light
If you listen hear the chorus
Angels fill the night
They are singing just to tell us
That He's arrived

He is lying in the barn of a stranger
Can you hear him crying in an old cattle manger?
Could a baby save us?
Only a miracle
Baby save us.

The world is waiting
Anticapating
Who is this among us?
Man that walks among us

Only look, once the man was blind but now
He will see, the lame can run
And it leaves us wondering how
Surely this must be the one
To save us all

Now the man is being nailed to a tree
Do I dare believe that He is dying for me?
He has come to save us
Only a miracle
Come to save us

Now He has risen

We been forgiven
Free to walk beside Him
Always be alive in Him

We heard Him promise
He'll come upon us
In a cloud of glory
The finish of The Story
