Button My Lip

Elvis Costello

Go, goDon't want to talk about the government
Don't want to talk about some incident
Don't want to talk about some pe-pe-peppermint gum
Don't want to talk about the time to comeButton my lip
'Til I'm a smart enoughDon't raise your hand, 'cause I'm not offering
It serves you right, now you are suffering
Give me the chance to see it through
It all depends on what you hold is trueButton my lip
With your kissDon't want to hear some little sniveling
You just don't get what I'm delivering Maybe you want me, but you know you can't I'd say, I want you, but you know I don'tButton my lip
'Til I'm old enough
'Til I'm smart enough, 'til I'm Button my lipDon't want to come at your beckoning
For any day they'll be a reckoning
Don't want to hear what is impossible
B-b-baby, you've become invisibleButton my lipI've seen those clowns, vacant and insolent
I stand accused, but I am innocent
I am the mighty and the magnificent
I am the mighty and the magnificent
I am the mighty and the magnificent

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/