Somewhere In Time

Savatage

So what can I tell you
If life's the length of this play
Perhaps God gave the answers
To those with nothing to sayNow the years are forgiven
For God's forgiving and kind
Perhaps we'll all find the answers
Somewhere in time, somewhere in timeI've been changing, redefining
All the things I thought, I knew
So long ago, I was flying
Through the years that seem so far awayIn the back of a reason
In the back of my mind
Where I've piled up the seasons
That I've traded for timeI've been grasping at rainbows
Hanging on till the end
But the rain is so real, Lord
And the rainbows pretend
The rainbows pretendI've been changing, redefining
All the things I thought, I knew
So long ago, I was flying
Through the years that seem so far away
