Fairweather Friend

Spitalfield

And you'll choke on those words, no one can swallow that much pride
And my contentions all ring true, every word you said was a lie
And I thought we were friends but you changed that in time
And you're too caught up in the trends with your ego on the lineYou played the role until I called you out, now I really hope you listened
I really hope you change things this time, don't feed me that line
I'm waiting for something that you'll never give, never againAnd this music will end and you'll move on to the next dying trend
You're my fairweather friend
And the signals that you send get mixed too easily
Another day like this could be the end of meYou played the role until I called you out, now I really hope you listened
I really hope you change things this time, don't feed me that line
I'm waiting for something that you'll never give, never again

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/