

Fade

Gates

I wanted eight little flowers I want the beauty to blossom here and bloom but don't want to grow them from our room And I want to last in the hour of summer heat when the sun beams on your face but can't shake the cold of winter days So the pedals wilt away and the blue skies turn to grey and I wish I hadn't left our love to fade I want to live without aging and I want to swim in the fountain of our youth but I know I wait inside of you And I want to love you forever I want to know like the always in your eyes but I only know how to say goodbye So our bodies wilt away and our flesh skin dulls to grey and I wish I hadn't left our love to fade
