Strong Enough

Stacie Orrico

As I rest against this cold, hard wall Or will you pass me by? Will you criticize me as I sit and cry? I had fought so hard and thought That all my battles had been won Only to find the war has just begun Is he not strong enough? Is he not pure enough? To break me, pour me out, and start again Is he not brave enough? To take one chance on me Please can I have one chance to start again? Will my weakness for an hour Make me suffer for a life time? Is there anyway to be made whole again? If I'm healed, renewed and find forgiveness Find the strength I've never had Will my scars forever ruin all God's plan? Is he not strong enough? Is he not pure enough? To break me, pour me out, and start again Is he not brave enough? To take one chance on me Please can I have one chance to start again? He took my life into his hands And turned it all around In my most desperate circumstance It's there I finally found That you are strong enough That you are pure enough To break me, pour me out and start again That you are brave enough To take one chance on me Oh thank you for my chance to start again

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/