Jamaican

Macka B

Well its about time they recognised jamaican as an official language Known as patwa but patwa is english that is broken but its not broken its a language thats universally spoken

Jamaican
that a way you talk me brother jamaican that a way you talk sister jamaican
talk how u talk sister not so long ago down in africa, we were talking african to one and other some wicked man come cross the border say we are the slave, and say him is the owner put we on a big ship together seperate the mother, father, sister and the brother put a man from Garna with a man from Nigeria one atalk a shante one atalk uroba try to mix we up so we dont understand dem forget the african invent comunnication we take de english put in the african a touch of arawak indian and we get jamaican

ye man everywher we go people wanna learn jamican dem love the sound they the vibration de love the gramma, the word combination spoken in a jamaica by the whole of the nation some people say u have to speak the english de say jamaica is a lower language we talk the english when we want but listen to this out of english and jamaica what sound the sweatest look at that - co,der what for - fewhat

go away - gwere look here - coo,ya here - yasso
there - desso where u going - arwhereugo come over here - comeunow i see - aarhwoo what r u eating - where u gnam that how i am - ah so me tan leave me alone - leftmenow go on - galong penky penky lubba lubba soso soso
