

Big Trouble

David Lee Roth

Oh yeah
Oh Well, Mousy Joe got the master plan
He got a hat full of sugar; folks said, "You a lucky man"
One night he just disappeared
And all we found was his hat in a clearing Down by the Seven Eleven
Folks cried, someone said he had died
But I know Joe
Didn't go to heaven, no He went looking for trouble
It was in his eyes
She was a dime a dozen
And they were two of a kind Cherry Blue and Mighty Mouse
Kinda quiet dude and sure was supposed to be back at the house
With the kids and the dog
"And tonight we're racketeers", said Mouse "And I know a little joint upstairs in the back Oh we can sweat it all out and laugh"
And without a doubt
They were out Looking for trouble
The real kind
She was a dime a dozen
And they were two of a kind How many times, have you said to yourself?
"Hey, I feel like a yo-yo, I've been here too long"
I bet if you asked them our heroes would say
"Hey, we're already gone", I know, somehow I know How many times, have you said to yourself?
"Hey, I feel like a yo-yo, I've been here too long"
I bet if you asked them our heroes would say
"Hey, we're already gone", I know How I know that mouse?
Yeah And off they drove, late night still life
Paper moon shinin' brilliantly
I'm sure he thinks that's cool
'Cause any moon or mouse says he's a friend of hers
And this one will do just fine
So what do you say, we go lookin'?
