Wasted

Choke

eighteen years old, did what you're told you've gone on with all your parents wishes fancy degree thought that was the key but now you're stuck washing dishes it's still so distant from you the life that you wanted your dreams are lost behind you forget it start over five filty plus tips putting up with shit this can't be all that there is four years in the books and all your time it took and you end up with nothing but this i can't believe you now all that time wasted you thought you had it all worked out it seems so simple now that you are on your own, so devastated you wish you had all the time back now that you've had a sample you face that fear a solemn oath that you were forced into
