Hideaway

Rock Kills Kid

Because you say, don't mean you mean it
Run away to find a home
Happy now but you don't see it
Run away because you're all aloneAnd you'll never know what could have been
And you'll never see what might have been
And you'll never know what could have been
And you'll never see what might have beenDead inside, you wait for something
Innocence lost so long ago
No one cares so why should you?
Run away because you're all aloneAnd you'll never know what could have been
And you'll never see what might have been
And you'll never know what could have been
And you'll never see what might haveBecause you say, don't mean you mean it
Run away to find a home
Now I'll let you in, yeah, I'll let you in, yeahAnd you'll never know what could have been
And you'll never see what might have been
And you'll never know what could have been
And you'll never see what might have beenAnd you'll never know
And you'll never know

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/