Sincerity

The Suicide Machines

Some people'll tell you all about it
They know everything there is to know
So they talk, talk, talk and everyone listens
It sounds real good, but the sincerity's missing [unverified]You try so hard to change the world
You'll be into something else next year
You try so hard but it's just not there
Take a look at your own and change yourselfEveryone thinks that they've got all the answers
Everyone thinks that they've found the truth
But no one thinks that we could die tomorrow
Gotta make the right choice about the path that you followYou try so hard to change the world
You'll be into something else next year
You try so hard but it's just not there
Take a look at your own and change yourselfSeems okay but when I scratch your surface
I can see that your heart's not in it, yeah, yeah, yeah
You talk so much but you're saying nothing
You got good lines, but nobody's listeningIts a hard road when the world is against you
It seems that way from time to time
Well, it's probably just your imagination
True sincerity can be your salvationYou try so hard to change the world
You'll be into something else next year
You try so hard but its just not there
Take a look at your own and change yourselfTake a look at the world and change the future
Take a look at everything and start the change in yourself

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/