

Now's The Time

Slick Shoes

All day long I've sat here
For I cannot find my way
Left or right I'll still go on
But will I see your face? But now is the time, we will survive
To see the light of another day
But now is the time, we will survive
To see the light of another day Days go by, what can I do?
What did I do for you?
And in the end what will there be?
And how much left of me? But now is the time, we will survive
To see the light of another day
But now is the time, we will survive
To see the light of another day But now is the time, we will survive
To see the light of another day
But now is the time, we will survive
To see the light of another day But now is the time, we will survive
To see the light of another day
But now is the time, we will survive
To see the light of another day
