Only Time Can Heal the Wounded

Chicago

You hear a sound as she's leaving
You'll hear your heart pound so hard
You'll miss her warm touch and the way things once were
It's such a cold town when you miss herIt's not the same place no more
When it's hard to mend what's broken
And you still can't let her go
Beyond the storm there's an answerBeyond the nights you spend alone
Beyond the headlights and the highways you go
You'll take a long ride without her
Until the tears dry awayIn every way you try to reason
When there's no reason left to hold
Only time can heal the wounded of love
Any day now time will tellOnly love can turn it all around again
There's no heart that time can't heal
Whatever pieces you're missing
Whatever you leave behindHowever you look at things they do change
It's not the same conversation
It's not the way that it was
There'll be one less tear tomorrow
There'll be one less night aloneOnly time can heal the wounded of love
Any day now time will tell
Only love can turn it all around again
There's no heart that time can't heal
Only time can heal the wounded of love
There's no heart that time can't heal
